

A Mother, a Grandma Too, this legacy we have from You.

You taught us Love, and how to fight, you gave a strength, you gave us might.

A stronger person would be hard to find, and in your heart, you were so kind. You fought for us all in one way or another, not just a mother, grandmother, great grandmother. For all the family you gave your best, Now the time has come for you to take your rest. So, go in peace, you've earned your sleep, your Love in our hearts, we'll eternally keep.

Mom,

There are some words that a son can never truly find to express what his mother has meant to him.
You were there to guide me when I needed direction,
to mold me when I needed shaping,
and encourage me when I needed strength.
You were my rock when life felt uncertain and my inspiration when I needed a reason to keep going.

You knew me better than anyone.
You knew my strengths, you knew my weaknesses,
and you knew every one of my shortcomings.
Yet somehow, you always found a way to love me through it all.

Your love was never based on perfection.
It was unconditional—the kind of love that only a mother can give.

Even when I made mistakes, you never stopped believing in me.
Even when I may not have always said it or shown it,
I knew that I could always count on you.

You helped mold me into the man I am today.
So much of who I am carries a piece of you—your lessons, your strength, your wisdom, your love, and even the things you taught me without saying a word.

I would give anything for one more conversation,
one more hug, one more chance to say,
"Mom, I love you."

Life will never be the same without you.
There will always be an empty place where you once stood,
a silence where your voice used to be,
and a space in my heart that no one else can fill.

But I know that losing you does not mean losing your love.
Your love will live inside me for the rest of my life.

When I face difficult days, I will remember your strength.
When I lose my way, I will remember your guidance.
And when I need to feel your presence,
I will close my eyes and carry you in my heart.

Thank you for being my mother.
Thank you for loving me when I didn't always make it easy.
Thank you for guiding me, molding me, believing in me,
and never giving up on me.

I am your son, and I will always be your son.
Until we meet again, Mom,
rest peacefully knowing that you were deeply loved,
you were greatly appreciated,
and you will never, ever be forgotten.

I love you, Mom.
Today, tomorrow, and for all the days of my life.

— Your Son, Wayne
