“Daddy’s Girl“

I will miss you dad from the bottom of my heart.
You taught me about God and that gave me a good start.
I remember one Christmas I was so hype.
When I woke up that morning, I saw my first bike.
When I grew up, I lost my way, but
I remember your words to always pray.
I watched you go through a tough time in your life and when things got rough you never gave up the fight.
So, it’s time for me to say goodbye to you for now, because
I know in heaven you have earned your crown.

Love you, Baby Girl

“A Loving Husband”

In your smile, my world is lit,
A gentle fire where my heart will sit.
Through every storm, through every mile,
You are my harbor, my reason to smile.
Your laughter dances, soft and sweet,
A tender rhythm my soul repeats.
With every glance, with every touch,
I find a love that means so much.
No words can hold the way I feel,
A bond so deep, so pure, so real.
Forever grateful, my heart is true—
My life’s best gift, my love, is you.

Submitted with Love

For as long as I can remember, even as a baby sitting in the church pews, when ELOHIM would use you to deliver his word to the congregation his spirit would pour out from you like rivers of flowing water. I was and always will be your biggest fan. Your loving sacrifice and commitment to putting YHWH first have always influenced me, and that is why I am so blessed today.

Through every trial, hardship, and moment of suffering and pain—even when others misunderstood you or thought you were insane, you remained my hero. I loved you even when you were not there for me and I needed you, but I never blamed you. Do you remember telling me I was too old to kiss you on the cheek? That was simply my way of showing how much I loved you, despite your absence.

Older friends and younger brothers became my mentors, but your love for ELOHIM and His spirit truly guided me. Through all my turmoil and every up and down, your example taught me how to follow Yahshua: no matter what happens in life, if you keep the love of Yahshua in your heart, you will always have a friend indeed.

I say all this because life is short and time waits for no one. While there is still breath in my lungs, I will not let life pass us by without telling you, in every season, why I will always love you—until the day I die and even beyond.

My mother could not understand how I could still love you so deeply after all you put us through. But isn't that the kind of love Yahshua showed both you and me? She also forgot that her little boy would one day grow into a man. That is why you will always be my hero: now I understand.

I love you, Dad—always and forever.
