

IN LOVING MEMORY OF

Miss Me But Let Me Go

When I come to end of the road
And the sun has set for me
I want no rites in a gloom- filled room
Why cry for a soul set free

Miss me a little, but not too long
And not with your head bowed low
Remember the love that we once shared
Miss me, but let me go

For this journey that we all must take
And each must go alone
It's a part of the Master's plan
A step on the road home

When you are lonely and sick at heart
Go to friends we know
And bury your sorrows in doing good deeds
Miss me, but let me go.

Expression of Gratitude

The family would like to take this opportunity to extend our sincere and heartfelt appreciation to everyone who has shown love and support. We appreciate and thank you for every prayer, visit, phone call, text, warm embrace – whatever gesture you've extended we have embraced it as it has left an indelible mark on our hearts. Your love and kindness will always be remembered by each of us.

Reflections of His Life

Marvin Benjamin Brown passed away peacefully at the age of 78 on September 13, 2026.

An artist, social and community activist, musician, writer, United States Air Force Airman, business owner, educator, father, and friend to many, Marvin lived a rich and meaningful life marked by diverse experiences, lasting relationships, and cherished memories.

He had a particular passion for educating others about African American and Indigenous history. Through his commentary, artwork, articles, and videos, Marvin shared his knowledge, perspectives, and commitment to preserving and illuminating history for others.

Marvin is survived by his three daughters, Kyshia Brown, Saeeda St. Aude, and Aisha Cohen; four grandchildren; one great-grandchild; and a host of other family members and friends.

May all who knew and loved Marvin find moments of peace, comfort, and reflection as they remember his life, his contributions, and the memories they shared with him.
