The Obituary

On August 8, 1997, God blessed the late Morris Young IV and Emma Sanders Young with an angel, Dazmine Shonqutta Young. After a year's battle of Sarcoma cancer, she transitioned peacefully surrounded by her loved ones on January 12, 2025 at Duke University Hospital.

Dazmine was an active and inquisitive child. She always had a passion for all sports and especially basketball, since was able to walk. Her family members were her biggest cheerleaders and occasionally she would get in trouble for making anything a basketball goal. She played basketball from parks and recreation all through high school and was named MVP during her senior year of high school.

She attended Johnston County Public Schools and graduated from Smithfield Selma High School in 2015. She attended Saint Augustine University where she was majoring in Business Administration. She joined Wesley Chapel AME Church with her parents at a young age. She was actively involved in YPD department, dance ministry, usher, youth choir, and drama ministry. Her passion was working with the Youth Department. She later started her own Bible Study Group with her cousins and friends. Dazmine joined the Sister's in Christ Ministry (Women's Ministry) as she continued to trust God for her healing. She worked for Fresenius Medical Care Center in Raleigh NC until her health declined. Dazmine brought immeasurable joy and light into our lives with a kind heart and a radiant smile.

She was preceded in death by her father, Morris Young IV; parental grandparents, Morris and Carrie Young; and maternal grandparents, Raymond and Pasty Sanders.

She leaves to cherish her memories: her son, Kaiden Lopez of the home; her lifetime partner, Lamont Lopez of the home; bonus son, Khaleb Lopez, whom she loved as her own; godson, Michael Hicks of Greensboro NC; loving mother, Emma Sanders Young of Smithfield NC; sister, DeAna Lassiter of Clayton NC; her brothers, Tavarus (Amanda) Young of Wake Forrest NC, Collie Ray of Dunn NC, and Morris Young of Dunn NC; nephews, Jimmy Raiford, Tavarus (Ty) Young, Jahsian Raiford, Jahmiere Raiford, Josaiah Raiford, Jason Young, and Titus Young; nieces, Alexia Young, Gabriella Young, and Abigail Young; uncles, John L Young of Dunn, NC, Ezel Young of Dunn NC, Raymond Jr (Susie) Sanders of Pikeville NC, Wayne (Banita) Sanders of Benson NC, and Paul (Gwen) Benjamin of Dunn NC; aunts, Valerie (James) Watson of Clayton NC, Katrina Sanders of Smithfield NC, and Blondale Young of Dunn NC; great uncle, Joe Mack Hodges; great aunts, Clara Price, Sallie Smith, and Brenda Hodges; godparents, Reginald and Tawana Sanders of Clayton NC; godsisters, Deja Sanders (best friend), Desiree Sanders, and D'Zaria Sanders; godbrother, Reginald (RJ) Sanders; best friend, Bashyra Faison; special friends, Tamara Jenkins, Kwanesha Woods, and Dannya Tavarez; friend\hairstylist, Tiara Brown; and a host of her cousins, other family, and friends, whom she loved dearly.

Acknowledgements

The family of Dazmine Young expresses sincere appreciation to each of you, for your many acts of kindness and prayers during this time. Your message of condolence, telephone calls, and prayers were greatly appreciated.

May God continue to bless each of you

"Miss Me, But Let Me Go"

I felt you hold my hand today, I heard your whispers and songs.
And as much as you want to keep me here, its no longer where I belong.
I heard the pain in your voice, when you begged me to come home.
And I so wish I could've told you, that's where I'm going and it won't be long.
You see this home was temporary, it was never built to last.

We only keep the memories, those precious moments from the past.

This was never my Home, merely a rented space.

There is no pain where I'm moving, only Eternal Grace.

I would never leave you, I'm simply moving away.

And when it's your time to visit me, the door will be open for you to stay.

I'm going Home today, they are calling my name at the Gate.

I don't want to let go of you, but I can't make them wait.

He holds my hand now, so you know I'm not alone.

Familiar faces wait for me, under a banner that reads "Welcome Home."

I know that you miss me, just trust that I'm not gone.

I asked Him to make the sun shine today, to let you know I made it Home.
