

Ride Free in Eternity

The engine hums, the trails unwind,
Through open fields and hills to climb.
The wind against his face so free,
A rider's soul in harmony.

Through mountain paths and dusty roads,
He found his peace where nature glowed.
A heart so strong, a hand so kind,
He never left a soul behind.

With chainsaw ready, trails made clear,
He carved the way, year after year.
Not just through forests, wild and wide,
But in our hearts, so deep inside.

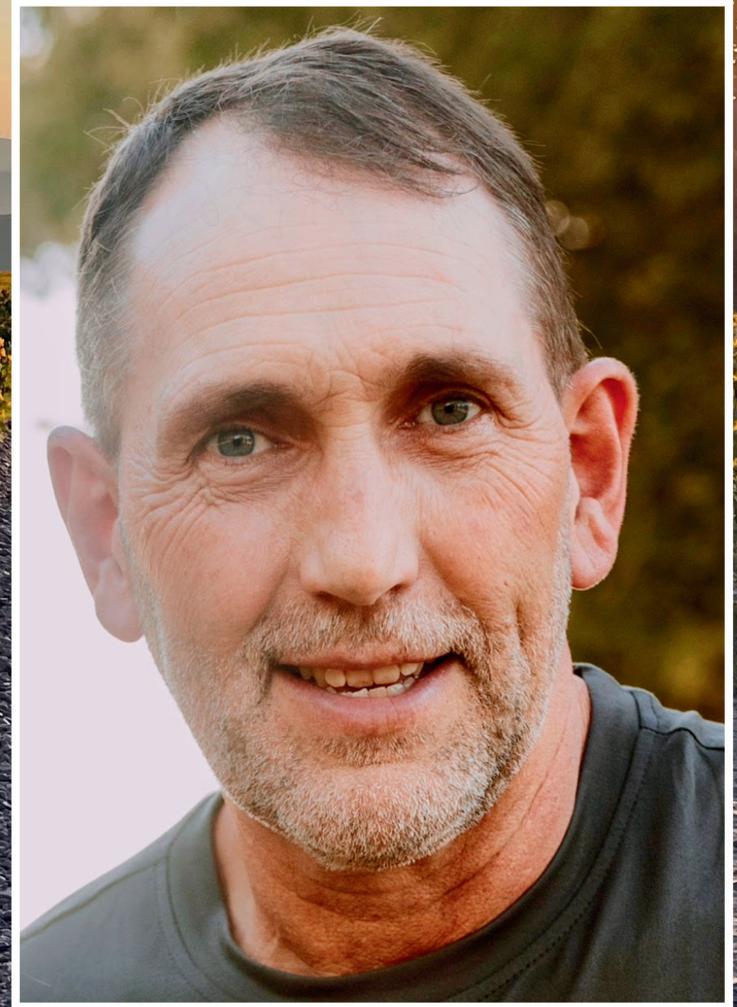

Though now his journey takes him far,
Beyond the veil, past moon and star,
We hold to faith, and know someday,
We'll ride together, come what may.

Families are eternal, and love transcends,
From earthly trails to heavens' bends.
His spirit roams where wheels still turn,
In endless hills and lessons learned.

So when you hear the thunder roar,
Of engines echoing once more,
Know that he rides, forever free,
In God's great plan, through eternity.
