ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Perhaps you sent a card or sat in a chair, perhaps you sent a flower or a special prayer, if so we saw it there; Perhaps you spoke a kind word or two as any family or friends would do; Perhaps you were not here at all or joined us in a zoom call or even though of us today we felt your presence anyway. As your daily duty calls whatever you did today to console our aching hearts, we thank you all from the bottom of our hearts. We thank you all so much whatever maybe your part; we greatly appreciate you dearly for the love, concerns, and prayers; May God bless each one of you.

My Gma Margo Ily first and foremost. Your voice was soothing even when you were mad it never changed it was always the facial expressions that let me know you meant business. I appreciate everything about you especially helping me and my children when we had nothing. Always had real conversations and never judged. Now you can be with grandpa.

POEM

“To Paint a Matriarch” by Sheila Harbor

Hey Gingersnap, What you doing girl?
I was just thinking about the definition of a matriarch
And you popped up clear as day.
A foundation figure: Someone who keeps the family traditions alive,
Unites everyone, and serves as a centre of love and wisdom...
Powerful.
You see how the words swirl and dance, laughing playfully while turning into color's that paint your very image...
Uncanny.
Also Favors a flame plucked straight from the sun, steady at the very centre of every fond memory, every chaotic moment, and every thought of home...
You.
And though we cannot reach for your hand today your light still gathers us close, guiding us, reminding us, that unconditional love and family is forever.
So, rest now sweet gingersnap, your love is stitched into us a story with no ending just carried forward, page by page through all of us.
