Obituary

Charlie George Easley was born on February 17, 1941, in Union City, Tennessee, to George Edward Easley and Vyra Virginia Morris Easley.

Charlie attended Miles High School. From an early age, he had a strong work ethic and a passion for fixing things. He learned the trade from his father, a tractor mechanic, and went on to become a lifelong mechanic and auto body technician. His work was more than a job—it was a calling.

Charlie loved country western music and everything about cars and trucks. He could often be found in the garage with a song on the radio and a wrench in his hand. Over the years, he built several trucks and kept them with pride.

Charlie was preceded in death by his beloved wife, Lillie Rae Robinson Easley, in the year 2000. Later in life, he cherished the companionship of Noletha Stewart.

Charlie built a blended family he loved deeply. He is survived by seven children, including Stacey Eugene Easley, his son by his second wife, Hazel Morris, and Stacey's loving wife, Elizabeth.

 he leaves behind.*

Granddaddy's Garage

Granddaddy's Garage

If Heaven has a garage,
 I know just where you'll be—
 With a cowboy hat upon your head,
 Smiling back at me.

You'll be tuning up old engines,
 With those steady, faithful hands,
 While country music softly plays
 Across God's peaceful land.

The trucks you built remain behind,
 Like treasures from your heart.
 No one could buy the love you poured
 Into every single part.

You taught us more than fixing things;
 You showed us how to live—
 To work with pride,
 To love our family,
 And always choose to give.

So when we hear a country song
 Or an old engine come alive,
 We'll smile because we know, Granddaddy,
 Your love is still alive.

Until we meet again...
 We'll love you,
 We'll miss you,
 And we'll carry you with us always.

A Letter to My Granddaddy

Dear Granddaddy,
 I miss you more than words can say. The garage isn't the same without your voice, your laugh, or your songs playing in the background. I still hear your advice when I need it most.

You and Bigmama didn't just raise me—you raised my heart, my values, and my faith. You showed me what hard work, kindness, and love look like. You believed in me, pushed me, and loved me through every high and low.

Thank you for every ride, every lesson, every hug, and every prayer. I carry you with me every day, and I thank God for the time He gave me with you.

Love Always,
 Catina ♥
