

In Loving Memory

Ernest "Ernie" Tolman

October 19, 1944 ~ June 1, 2025

Gay and carefree youth, your one ambition,
 is to someday find the one and only one
 who can lend real meaning to life's mission,
 and love can be more beautiful and true,
 if the one you choose, will truly say to you.

To the temple by the river, that peaceful, holy shrine,
 we will go sweetheart, together, to seal our love divine,
 Lov'd ones dear and angels will witness tenderly,
 when you're giv'n to me my own to be for time and eternity,
 for all time and eternity.

As your vows you make, you'll kneel together,
 and learn God's choicest blessings you may share.
 Humbly ask the Father's holy spirit,
 to bless your home with love and children dear.
 Love can be more beautiful and true,
 if you'll often go, your covenants to renew.

To the temple of the Father, that peaceful holy shrine,
 we will go sweetheart, together, to seal our love divine,
 Lov'd ones dear and angels will witness tenderly,
 when you're giv'n to me my own to be for time and eternity,
 for all time and eternity.

To Daddy:

Oh, Daddy dear, I do love you: I'm grateful that you love me too.
I could buy ties or books and such to show I love you very much.
But this year when it's Father's Day, I won't give gifts the usual way.
Instead, the whole year through will be A day of love to you, from me.
In the name of Jesus Christ amen.
