

Until We Meet Again

The air is soft with the weight of parting,
Yet your laughter still lingers in the folds of the day.
We have walked through seasons hand in hand,
our shadows braided in the late sun's gold.
Love does not vanish with the closing door-
it settles in the quiet corners,
in the scent of rain on warm earth,
In the way my heart still turns toward yours.
Friendship is a bridge that time cannot burn;
its stones remember every step,
even when the river swells between us.
Death may pause our voices,
But it cannot silence the song we began.
This is not the end-
only a chapter folded gently,
a candle cupped against the wind,
its flame waiting for the moment
We light it together once more.

We want to thank the staff at Uintah Care Center for Shaun's amazing care for the past 14 years, and also thank Ashley Regional Hospital and Canyons Hospice for end-of-life care. The family wishes to also thank all the friends who have come to be with us today, and share the beautiful stories with us of time spent with Shaun.
