

In the Quiet of His Love

In Memory of Our Father

*He never sought the spotlight's glow,
Nor asked the world to see—
The countless ways he gave his all,
So gently, faithfully.*

*A steady hand, a thoughtful heart,
A soul both kind and true.
He lived his life with quiet grace,
And always followed through.*

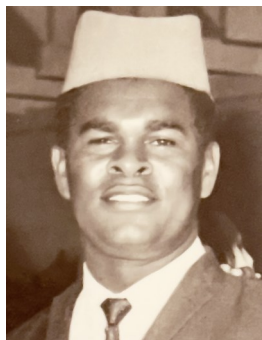

*He showed us how to stand up tall
By stooping low to serve.
He led by love, not by command,
With strength in every curve.*

*The tasks he took, the words he chose,
Were humble, calm, and wise.
He didn't speak of all he bore—
You saw it in his eyes.*

*He taught us not with pointed words
But by the life he led—
The way he rose, the way he gave,
The prayers he softly said.*

*And though the room may feel more still,
His love remains so loud—
In every life he quietly touched,
He made his family proud.*

*So now we lay this good man down
With reverence and grace—
Forever in our hearts he lives,
No time, no loss, can erase.*

Life Reflections

The Venerable Lenox Percy Stuger, of Boston, Massachusetts, passed away on July 7, 2025, at the age of 85.

Born on June 6, 1940, in Rosehall, Guyana, South America, Lenox was the second of four children of Percy William Stuger and Elva Elizabeth Stuger (née Smith). He grew up in Georgetown alongside his siblings—older brother Sydney and younger sisters Joan and Yvonne—where he developed a lifelong love of cricket and enjoyed watching major matches with friends and family.

After completing his education in Georgetown, Lenox began his career in the insurance industry. It was during these formative years in the close-knit community of Georgetown that he met the love of his life, Valerie Monica Welcome. The two married on December 15, 1960, beginning a partnership that would span more than six decades.

In 1970, Lenox and Valerie embarked on a new chapter, immigrating to Boston, Massachusetts, where they raised their four children: Shaun, Jeremy, Nicola, and Tracy. Lenox continued working in insurance before transitioning to a long and fulfilling career in security at Arthur D. Little, he dedicated over two decades of his life to a career in security, becoming a trusted guardian of the world's oldest consulting firm. His service was defined by a profound sense of duty and commitment, where he played a quiet yet critical role in upholding the security of the historic company.

Lenox was a proud and active member of the Independent United Order of Mechanics, Friendly Society, Western Hemisphere, Inc., New England District Grand Lodge #1. His decades of service culminated in his induction into the College of Venerable Past Grandmasters. Through his leadership and care, he helped steward the organization's lodges and chapters, always mindful of the wellbeing of members and their families.

Lenox had a deep love for Caribbean culture. He found joy in reggae music, the flavors of Caribbean food and the traditions that reminded him of home. Whether through cooking, music, or conversation, he kept his Guyanese roots and the spirit of the Caribbean alive in his daily life.

Known for his strong sense of fashion and impeccable style, he took pride in presenting himself with grace and polish. Whether dressed for church, a family gathering, or a community event, he carried himself with dignity, charm, and elegance.

He also loved to travel, especially cruising to the Caribbean with Valerie by his side. Visits with family in New York, New Jersey, Canada and England were treasured, as were gatherings filled with laughter, music, and good food.

He is survived by his four children, sixteen grandchildren, and one great-grandchild, all of whom brought him immense pride and joy.
