Well, Tootsie ole boy,
you slipped on by.
You waited til I left,
during the midnight hour.
God had His reason
to take you away.

I dare not question Him
for this He does from day to day.
You've served so many people in your daily walk of life.
You did it with a smile and definitely without a doubt.
Your mechanical hands
and with that sharp ole mind,
You could fix anything
in just a matter of time.
Don't worry about your legacy which will be carried on,
You left behind some smarties,
your daughters, Nicci and Roz.
You're now ready to fly away
to that heavenly home
God will be waiting to greet you gathering around His throne,
So, Tootsie Judge, so long!
You'll soon be up there singing,
Singing in the Heavenly Choir.
I'll be coming to join you
According to God's desire.

Your Faithful Wife,
Betty Jo
