He leaves to cherish his memories of a beautiful wife of thirty-seven years; Eula Bryant; six sons, Sterling (Tiffany) Manuel, Charles (Camethia) Manuel, James (Tabria) Bryant, Antonio (Wacheria) Bryant, Dexter King and David Johnson. A special daughter, Destine King; three siblings, Velma Harris, Temple (Ann) Woods and Obie (Pat) Woods; fourteen grandchildren and a host of other relatives and friends.

Laundry Mat (Cleansing a soul)

So many times, we imagine the ending wondering how but not knowing when. Letting life stroll by while forgetting it's okay to cry and hardly letting our knees bend (Pray). So frequently we operate on opposite frequencies, not understanding the inner workings of a soul's loud noises and bright lights distract vision. Nobody talks about family or dreams or making plans for better, because we're so caught up in the now.

What is favor?

Living long enough to receive praise at life's final stage. Being cared over just like you care for. No shame in death, no fear of leaving, even though we want to stay, knowing sometimes there will be tears. Just cleansing souls. But we know everything is and will be okay. souls. But we know everything is and will be okay.
