

A Measure of a Man

The measure of a man is not determined

By his show of outward strength

Or the volume of his voice

Or the thunder of his actions

Or of his intellect or academic abilities

It is seen rather in terms of the love that he has

For his family and for everyone

The strength of his commitments

The genuineness of his friendships

The sincerity of his purpose

The quiet courage of his convictions

The fun, laughter, joy and happiness he gives to his family and to others

His love of life

His patience and his honesty

And his contentment with what he has

Obituary

George Henry Hall Sr. was born and raised in West Virginia to Carolyn Hall, one of nine children. A proud member of the Blackfoot Indian Tribe, George was raised by his beloved grandmother, Gertrude, who helped shape the man he would become.

George attended the historic Excelsior High School in McDowell County, West Virginia. After graduating, he moved to Philadelphia, where he began building a life filled with hard work, family, and lasting memories. He attended Temple College for two years and went on to enjoy a remarkable 35-year career with a Pennsylvania company. Throughout his career, he worked as a carpenter, laboratory technician specialist, and draftsman. He was also a property owner who took pride in what he was able to build throughout his life.

Outside of work, George enjoyed the things that brought him happiness. He had a love for model airplanes, and music was an important part of his life. He especially enjoyed R&B and soul artists, including The Temptations, Earth, Wind & Fire, The Isley Brothers, James Brown, Michael Jackson and the Jackson 5, Marvin Gaye, Stevie Wonder, Luther Vandross, The O'Jays, New Edition, Boyz II Men, Whitney Houston, Alicia Keys, Ray Charles, The Stylistics, Bobby Brown, Keith Sweat, Shock G, and the Ohio Players.

George was also an avid boxing fan, enjoying legendary fighters such as Muhammad Ali, Joe Frazier, George Foreman, Mike Tyson, Sugar Ray Robinson, Joe Louis, Rocky Marciano, and Jack Johnson.

But above all else, George loved his family. He loved his children deeply and took great joy in his grandchildren, whom he proudly cherished. To them, he was affectionately known as “Pops.”

George Henry Hall Sr. leaves behind a legacy of family, perseverance, hard work, and love. His life will be remembered through the children he loved, the grandchildren he cherished, the stories that will continue to be told, and the memories that will remain in the hearts of everyone who knew him.

Forever loved. Forever remembered. Forever Pops.
