Gone But Not Forgotten

You and I had a bond that was unbreakable. I always felt like and still feel, that I am your protector. Even though you are gone, and my heart is broken, I know you are ok, and for that reason I smile.

- Love you always Renai

These are the moments when the world holds its breath for us. Moments that will change our lives forever. As you transitioned from here to heaven, things will be different, but on the inside where our courage lies, where the love is, it will never change. We will truly miss you forever.

-Love your kids.
