

The Embrace of Stars

The night is thick and solid

I will stand on it

And climb my way to the stars

To pluck them from the sky to place by your bed.

They shine for you when you are alone and afraid.

With your personal canopy of stars,

While darkness is thick around you,

I will pass through

Close by your side, unseen

Look to your stars to find me

Until the night is over

And the day comes

But for now we will be among the stars.
