

She is Gone

I am standing on the seashore.

A ship appears, she spreads her white sails to the morning breeze and starts for the ocean.

She is an object of beauty and I stand watching her till at last she fades away on the horizon.

Somebody at my side quietly says, "She is gone."

Gone where?

*Gone from my vision, that is all;
she is just as large as when I saw her last.*

*The diminished size and loss of sight is in me, not her;
and just at the moment when someone at my side says,*

"She is gone," there are others who are watching her coming, and voices take up the joyful shout,

"Here she comes!"
