The Last Mile

Yes Lord, I know,
It's really about time
for me to go.
Just reluctant, a little slow,
no one ever likes to go.

I've been here
a very long time,
a lot of sorrows and
pleasures have been mine.

I have followed a lot of trails
around the bend,
and now I realize that I'm close to the end.

Just a little time,
with things and friends
that have been mine,
as down the trails of life
I did slowly wind.

Just a little time oh Lord,
if it be thy will,
and then I can walk
over that lonely hill.

If you go with me
that last long mile,
maybe I can go with a grin,
if not a full smile.

You see I, Lord, I know not what lies ahead.
There's no way I could know,
for I've never been dead.
Oh Lord, I'm ready, if you take my hand, But please, may I leave some footprints in the sand.
