

HER HANDS

Take a look at these hands twisted, wrinkled with age
And just think of the things they have done.
Just imagine the places they've been, what they've seen.
Memories, special, each and every one.

As a child they played with dolls, worked on the farm,
Held the bat when she hit that home run.
As a teen they held pom poms and wrote school reports,
Guided bikes, tractors, cars—had such fun.

They held a man's hand across alters of white,
Became part of sweet promises there.
Then returned to that alter again and again
As with others, those blessings she'd share.

They cradled her little ones, put Band-Aids on
They held those she loved close and tight.
They comforted friends, parents, others so dear
For a moment or all through the night.

Creating and writing, embroidery work,
Crochet, needle point. They didn't rest.
Never still for a moment were these special hands.
Each project, she made it her best.

Crooked and wrinkled and twisted with love.
It becomes easy to understand
Why they look like they do when you know what they've done
These things we call simply, HER HANDS.

Rudd FUNERAL HOME

A Tribute to RaMona Neeley Hull

Wife, Mother, Grandmother, Great-Grandmother,
Daughter, Sister and Friend

My life is but a weaving between my Lord and me.

*I cannot choose the colors
He worketh steadily.*

*Oft times He weaveth sorrow
And I in foolish pride
Forget He sees the upper
And I the underside*

*Not til the loom is silent
And the shuttles cease to fly
Shall God unroll the canvas
And explain the reason why*

*The dark threads are as needful
In the Weaver's skillful hand,
As the threads of gold and silver
In the pattern He has planned*
