

Lynn Jackson passed away peacefully to join her Lord and Savior on August 1, 2026, in Cleburne. She was born on September 18, 1932, in Files Valley, Texas.

Lynn was a devoted Christian and was baptized in the Presbyterian Church. A cherished member of her community, Lynn leaves behind a legacy defined by compassion, dedication, and enduring connections with those she loved. Across a remarkable 37-year career in education, Lynn served the communities of Ennis, Dallas, Plainview, and Cleburne with exceptional commitment and care. Her influence on generations of students and colleagues is a testament to her unwavering dedication to learning, mentorship, and the betterment of others.

Those who knew Lynn remember her for her beautiful handwriting, a small but enduring sign of her attention to detail and the thoughtfulness she brought to all she did. Generosity defined her interactions, always seeking opportunities to brighten the lives of those around her. Her joy in celebrating the holidays and giving gifts was matched only by her generous spirit. Lynn took great pride in her home and particularly enjoyed tending to her yard. She regularly fed the birds and found joy in the company of animals, reflecting her deep love for all creatures. Lynn loved traveling with her late husband, Jack, embracing adventure while holding steadfast to the comforts of home and family.

Playful and loving, Lynn always put family first. She was known for maintaining close connections through thoughtful correspondence, visits brimming with laughter, and her special tradition of singing "Happy Birthday" over the phone, always accompanied by a heartfelt card. Her affection for family and the joy she found in the company of family and friends were clear to everyone who knew her. Lynn's impact extended well beyond her immediate circle. Her warmth, kindness, and the deliberate ways she made others feel valued will be remembered by all whose lives she touched.

Lynn was preceded in death by her husband, Jack B. Jackson; parents, Fern and Inez Weaver; brother, Lloyd Weaver; sister-in-law, Carol Weaver; nephew and niece, Jim and Becky Weaver.

She is survived by her brother, Loren Weaver & his wife Emmie, nephews, Tommy Weaver, Dan Weaver & his wife, Kathy; niece, Krista Weaver, great-nephew, Joe Weaver, great-niece, Abby Hollingsworth & her husband, Cole, and many other family members and friends.
