Obituary

Delores Wyndel Green Rambo was born on February 9, 1943, to Elsie Parker and Leroy Green in Marshall, Texas. At age nine, she moved to California, where she spent her formative years and later married Larry B. Rambo. Together, they raised four children. Delores worked in several roles throughout her life and later served as a government secretary in California, where she formed many lasting friendships. After moving to Georgia, she spent a decade caring for her mother, reflecting her deep devotion to family.

Delores was known for her warmth, spirited personality, and love of joyful gatherings. She cherished her children and grandchildren, found happiness in life's simple pleasures, and brought laughter wherever she went. Above all, she drew strength and purpose from her faith as a devoted Jehovah's Witness, striving to live with love, kindness, and compassion.

Delores is survived by her sister Shelethia Green, children, Bridgette Rambo Smith and Elisa Rambo Minor; bonus daughters, Lisa Adams and Penny Greene; and life partner, Kenneth Douglas. She also leaves 12 grandchildren: Sydney Johnson, Tayla Young, Miracle Wilkerson, Kevin Wilkerson, Jahmelia Arnold, Rakeem Minor, Candere Minor, Darrin Minor, Delores Dawson and her husband, Sagnelli Dawson II, Lynnisa Berry, Raymond Berry Jr., and Treasure Smith; God-grandsons Keneil Sasser and Kenny Chambers Jr.; 22 great-grandchildren: China, Louis, Raymond, Je'Corey, London, Jaden, Knox, Journey, Scarlett, Savannah, Shiloh, Sidney Jr., Sharday, Darriaun, Jeffrey, Tajenna, Dayen, Mia, Kevin, Kaylynn, Jahmir, and Jahleah; and three great-great-grandchildren: Zohayla, Lindan, and Blue. She was preceded in death by her parents, Elsie Parker and Leroy Green; her daughter, Jennifer Rambo; her son, Darrin Rambo; and her former husband, Larry B. Rambo.

Delores will be remembered for her love, laughter, faith, and generous spirit. Her legacy lives on in the hearts of all who knew and loved her.
