REMEMBER

When you think back on the times we have had,

I hope a smile crosses your face, and you are not sad

I want you to remember the calm voice with the big jokes,

Laughing so hard that you would almost choke

Remember the man who stood tall,

When a lesser man would crumble and fall

Tell the story of how I worked hard to help support my family

So that the next generation will also remember me

Remember the singing, though it would sometimes make your ears ring,

Remember, you still couldn't make me believe that I couldn't sing

Remember the quiet spirit, in the midst of a storm,

How I would calmly bring peace and bring us back to the norm

Remember that I had a great big heart,

And that my love will never end, even though we are apart

So, when you are sitting quietly, and you think of me

Close your eyes, smile, and remember....

That now, I am finally free
