The Beautiful Soul at the Piano

In the quiet glow of morning's grace,
Soft sunlight warms the sacred space.
The pews stand still, the candles gleam,
As music stirs a waking dream.
A gentle soul, both pure and mild,
With heaven's peace upon her smiled,
Takes her seat where wood and ivory meet,
And lets her heart un rhythm beat.
Each note ascends a prayer in sound,
A hymn where love and faith are found.
The chords embrace the vaulted air,
And lift the hearts of all in prayer.
No pride, no show, no eternity fame—
Just whispered praise in Jesus' name.
Her fingers weave what words can't say,
And light the soul in sweet array.
The music fades, yet lingers still,
Like grace that flows beyond all will.
For in that song, both calm and whole,
God smiled upon her beautiful soul.

Obituary

Florence Beatrice Landrum Randall was born July 26, 1927, to the late Clarence and Blanche Landrum in Cincinnati, OH. She was known to everyone as "Beatrice."

Beatrice fell asleep on November 6, 2025, and is now resting in the arms of Jesus.

She was raised in Providence Baptist Church, where she accepted Christ at an early age.

Beatrice started to play piano at the young age of four. She traveled with her father around the city to accompany him on the piano. She was so small he had to lift her onto the piano stool. The first song she played for him at the age of four was "Somebody Touched Me."

Beatrice later joined New Highpoint Baptist Church under the leadership of Arthur Randall, her husband and pastor of the church where she played until her health failed.

She was a member of the Minister's Wives Association and many ministries in the church.

Beatrice worked as an Avon representative and Real Estate Investor.

She loved to dress up. On Sundays, she would wear her matching hat, shoes, and purse. For the 3:30 p.m. service, she would often wear a completely different outfit. In today's terms, she would be called a Fashionista.

Beatrice's memory began to fade. However, her musical gifts were still intact. She occasionally played piano and sang some of her favorite hymns in the nursing home chapel for staff and residents.

She never forgot the Lord. We are grateful to GOD for her long life. Beatrice contributed both physically and financially to her church.

Preceding her in death are her parents, Clarence and Blanche Landrum; brothers Clarence Melvin, Alex and James Alvin; sisters Laura Bell, Geraldine, Katherine and Odessa; and her husband, Pastor Arthur Randall.

Left to cherish her memories are a host of nieces, nephews, other relatives and friends.
