“Because, Because is Just Because” by MaryAnn Broberg

I whispered softly, “I Love You!” and you asked the question “Why?”
“Does there have to be a reason?” was my tart and quick reply.

Maybe it’s because you tell, those silly, funny jokes–
Or because you think of me, without even being coaxed.
A short phone call, a rose bouquet, or a package gaily wrapped,
With the sentiment ‘I LOVE YOU’ on the note securely ‘ttatched.

Maybe it’s ‘cause you treat me with such extra special care,
Your praise and compliments, have made me feel aware...
Of my calling as a wife and mother, “no one else can do as well!”
I should feel quite important ‘cause you make me think “I’m Swell”

Maybe it’s because I’m stubborn and when my temper flares,
You simply ignore my impudence and pretend it isn’t there.
Because your sense of humor, is seasoned with light spices,
You turn even hopeless situations, into a happy crisis.

Maybe it’s just because... because it’s the only reason.
I just know the feelings real unless my heart’s been teasin’.

There isn’t any reason why I love you like I do.
I honestly don’t think I need one...

Now really, Dear,
Do You?
