OUR SONGBYRD THROUGH TIME

Tymara Walker

Tymara Ilene Walker, a talented musician and cherished member of our family and community, peacefully left us on November 20, 2025, with her son by her side. Tymara leaves behind a legacy of music and an indelible mark on everyone who had the privilege of knowing her.

Born on October 16, 1978, in Boston, MA, Tymara was raised with love by her mother, Kay Burgess (née Robinson), and her father, Gregory Smith (deceased). In 1979, her family relocated to Toledo, where her creativity flourished from a young age. In 2009, they moved to Detroit, and in 2011, Tymara embraced a new chapter in Las Vegas.

Through her music, Tymara shared her heart and soul, seamlessly blending various genres to create a unique sound that resonated with many. Her passion for music was evident, and she dedicated her life to pursuing her dreams, inspiring others along the way.

Tymara was an exceptional mother, nurturing her children, Brooklynne and Breyon Walker, with love and encouraging their creativity. She instilled in them the values of kindness, perseverance, and self-expression, taking pride in every accomplishment.

As a beloved daughter, sister, and wife, Tymara cherished her family ties, bringing warmth and joy to every moment spent with loved ones. She was known for her warm smile, infectious laughter, and compassionate nature. Tymara's ability to unite people through her music and genuine spirit made her a treasured friend to many.

Tymara is survived by her husband, Jon Walker; her children, Brooklynne Walker (Tanajha) and Breyon Walker, Bryan Spears and Breonna Adams; her mother, Kay Burgess (Sterling); her sister, Danielle Corley; her uncle, Clarence Smith (Patricia); her aunt, Fay Robinson; her dear cousin, Taje Miller; and a host of cousins, family, and friends. Her memory will forever live on in the hearts of those she touched through her music and love.

LOVING TRIBUTE TO Tymara Walker

“The world knew Tymara as a brilliant singer and unforgettable performer — a voice that could quiet a room, lift a soul, and command stages across the globe. I knew her as even more. She was my wife, my best friend, the mother of our children, and the bold, fearless Songbyrd whose truth cut through silence and whose love covered everyone she touched. She lived her purpose loudly — fighting for those who didn’t have a voice, loving her family fiercely, feeding hearts and stomachs with fried chicken, baked mac and cheese, and a laugh you felt in your chest. Her beauty was undeniable — but her soul was greater, her passion wider, her impact deeper. She gave herself without hesitation, she loved without limit, and she changed my life in ways that time can never erode. Her music will live, her voice will carry, her legacy will stand — but it is her heart that will echo through us forever. Tymara was not just my everything; she was more than everything. And her melody remains — eternal, unbroken, forever ours.”
