

In Loving Memory of
Jean Cox Jensen

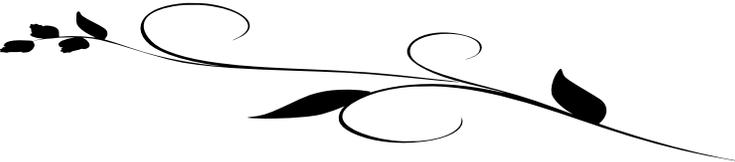

Grandma Jean

*In a cozy corner, Grandma Jean sits tight,
A woman of grace, her spirit shining bright.
With German whispers, she weaves tales of old,
Her stories like melodies, enchanting, and bold.
With nimble fingers, she dances on keys,
The piano's song, a symphony that frees.
Independent and strong, her spirit takes flight,
Guiding us through darkness with her radiant light.
Oh, Grandma Jean, a delight so pure, your laughter,
A melody we always endure.
In your presence love finds its home,
A beacon of joy wherever you roam.*
