

May I Go?

May I Go Now? Don't you think the time is right? May I say Good-bye to pain-filled days and endless lonely nights? I've lived my life and done my best, an example tried to be. So can I take that step beyond and set my spirit free? I didn't want to go at first, I fought with all my might! But something seems to draw me now to a warm and loving light.

I want to go! I really do! It's difficult to stay. But I will try as best I can to live just one more day ~ To give you time to care for me and share your love and fears. I know you're sad and are afraid because I see your tears. I'll not be far, I promise that, and hope you'll always know.

That my spirit will be close to you wherever you may go. Thank you so for loving me. You know I loved you too. That's why it's hard to say good-bye and end this life with you. So hold me now, just one more time and let me hear you say, Because you care so much for me, you'll let me go today.

REMEMBER ME

To the living, I am gone,
To the sorrowful, I will never return,
To the angry, I was cheated,
But to the happy, I am at peace,
And to the faithful, I have never left.

I cannot speak, but I can listen.
I cannot be seen, but I can be heard.
So as you stand upon a shore gazing at a beautiful sea,
As you look upon a flower
and admire its simplicity,
Remember me.

Remember me in your heart:
Your thoughts, and your memories,
Of the times we loved,
The times we cried,
The times we fought,
The times we laughed.
For if you always think of me,
I will never have gone.

Loving TRIBUTES

My Lonzo,

It's hard to find the words to contain 54 years of a life built together — a life full of laughter, tears, shared dreams, quiet mornings, and long talks into the night. You were not just my husband — you were my soul mate, my help mate, the love of my life, and the best friend I could have ever asked for.

From the moment we met, something inside me just knew. You had this steady strength, this warmth in your eyes, and a kindness that ran so deep. With you, I felt safe. I felt seen. I felt like I had finally found home.

You gave me the greatest gifts of all — our three beautiful daughters. Watching you love them, teach them, and guide them was one of the greatest joys of my life. You were always there — steady, patient, loving. You showed us all what it meant to be a good man. A good father. A good grandfather. A good husband.

We were partners in everything. You held my hand through the good days and the hard ones. You made me laugh when I wanted to cry. You stood beside me, never behind, never ahead — always with me. There was no mountain we couldn't climb together, and no valley I ever had to walk through alone, because you were there.

Now, I find myself missing the sound of your voice, the way you said my name, the way your arms felt like the safest place in the world. But even in this sorrow, I feel you. In every quiet moment. In the faces of our children. In the memories that fill every corner of my heart. Thank you, my love, for a lifetime. For showing me, what true love is. For walking besides, me every step of the way. I will carry your love with me always — it's a part of who I am.

Until we meet again, I love you more. I always will.
