~ Life Reflections ~

Mrs. Ruthie Brown

On Friday, September 16th, God called Ruthie Brown home. Ruthie Brown was born in Yazoo City, Mississippi on January 26, 1958, to her mother, Hattie Perkins of Yazoo City, Mississippi.

At a young age, Ruthie moved to Buffalo, New York where she was raised by the late Mattie Fulks and Cornell Cooper. At an early age, Ruthie gave her heart to the Lord and accepted Jesus Christ as her Lord and Savior.

Ruthie went to a Catholic school where she completed some of her education. She later went back to school to complete her education and received her GED, so she could become a nurse as she loved to help people. She was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Ruthie moved back to her hometown of Yazoo City, Mississippi where she had found the love of her life, her best friend James, her JB, and they both became one.

Ruthie leaves to cherish her memories; her husband: James E. Brown, Sr. of Yazoo City, MS; one sister: Shirley Brown of Jackson, MS; one brother: Ernest Becks of Yazoo City, MS; one cousin: Belinda (Robert) Lett; four sons: Jerome Taylor of Pennsylvania, Christopher Cooper of Buffalo, NY, James Brown Jr. (Latasha) and Austin Bryant, both of Yazoo City, MS; four daughters: Diana Cooper, Justine Montes (Franky), Tenika Cooper, all of Buffalo, NY and Malaia Cooper of Kansas City. Ruthie also leaves to cherish her memories; thirty-one (31) grandkids and fourteen (14) great-grandkids; and a host of nieces, nephews cousins and friends.

Ruthie was preceded in death by two sisters: Sylvia Carter and Mary Wolmack; three brothers: Oliver Taylor, James Becks and Willie Taylor; and aunt: Ruthie Hatchett.

~ Tributes ~

Mom, did you ever know that you were my hero and everything I would like to be.

I can fly higher than an eagle for you are the wind beneath my wings.

I got you here in my heart mom I want you to know the truth.

Of course, I know it. I would be nothing without you.

Love Your Son ~ Always & Forever
Beebop AKA (Opsters)

Mom, I Love you forever
Love Your Son,
Jerome

You make the sunshine on a cloudy day,
When I'm sick you kiss the pain away.
Always your tender voice took away my fears,
Your hand that wiped away my tears.
The love you give so honest and pure,
Keeping me forever safe and secure.

You make flower bloom in the spring it was you who fixed my broken wing
Mom, because of you I know love you, are my guardian angel from above.

Your Daughter Lana (Spookie)

~ Tributes ~

Mommy, I thought of you today but that is nothing new.

I thought about you yesterday, also, days before too.

I think of you in silence, I always speak your name.

All I have now is your memories, And your beautiful picture in a frame.

Your memories are a keepsake, from which I'll never let go
God has you in his arms now
And I have you in my heart
Will always love you for ever and ever.

Love Your Daughter,
Justine (Baby Girl)

Mom, I miss your cooking
I miss your Dancing and smile
Even though you couldn't dance I still loved it. You will be missed
Love You Always.

Your Oldest Daughter,
PEE

Mom, although I'm missing you, I'll find a way to get through.
Living without you is going to be hard. Mom, I promise you I will make it.

Love You Always & Forever
