If You Could See Me Now

*If you could see me now,
you wouldn't shed a tear.*

Though you may not understand why I'm no longer here.

Remember my spirit, that's the real me.

*I'm still very much alive, oh,
if you could only see!*

I've beheld our Father's face.

I've touched my Savior's hand.

The angels all rejoiced as I entered the Promised Land.

Beyond the gates of pearl,

I walk on golden streets.

*I've touched the walls of jasper,
dipped my foot in the crystal sea.*

*The beauty is beyond words,
nothing can compare.*

*I've even seen your mansion;
someday I will meet you there.*

*Allow Jesus to be your guide,
His word will show you the way.*

So, please, don't cry!

We will meet again someday!

His final days on earth were spent surrounded by his wife Louisa Martin, his children Robert Jr, Michelle Martin, Janette and Tori Stevens. While on his journey back to creator he was supported by numerous family and friends.

Bobby will be forever remembered and loved by his wife Louisa Martin and children Robert Jr., Michelle Martin, Janette and Tori Stevens. His grandchildren Layla Campbell, Emelyn Beacham, Kinsley Campbell will carry his legacy.

Bobby is predeceased by his community mother Grace Genaille, best friend "Poncho" Eugene Genaille; father Allan Lavallee; grandparents "Nanny" and "Umpie" Genaille; sister Dora Lavallee; niece Zaylvnn Lavallee and cousin Jamie Dick.

Bobby spent some time serving in the military as an infantry soldier with Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry (PPCLI). He spent years as a seasonal firefighter and youth coach. He appreciated his communities (Cormorant and Mosakahiken) and did not explore too far or too long from his homelands.

Bobby had a soul connection to his community relatives from "up that way" and gained the trust of many people who became his close friends and non-blood relatives. Friends and family remember Bobby to be heard before he was seen. He had a loud demeanour and often met people with his humour. Bobby has a legacy known to bring many people together through his laughter and offered a lightness to heartache situations. Bobby was not only known for his quick witted character, but his passion to help others in his communities. He lived for the outdoors and was often found to be guiding people through the land and waters.

Bobby's love for fishing and hunting was a life long passion and he invested his knowledge into the young people. He loved goose, moose and loon calling. Bobby loved lemon meringue pie and would often say, "You know you are getting old when you start liking raising pie." Singing to his granddaughters and spending time with Louisa was medicine for Bobby's body, mind and spirit.
