

Your embrace is something I so desperately desire
A feeling that I am proud to say I've experienced .
Nothing could have prepared me for this feeling.
Will there be some point in life where I know I'll be ok?
or is it something that I'll never know?
Life continues to move on but these feeling will remain
I love you mama and I always will Momma is the name I will call out to let you know that I need you to be here even though you can't.
I want you here but that isn't my choice. It never was.
Everyday I question how will I find beauty in a world
you no longer remain?
Until I think of your smile and your laugh and it simply eases the pain.

OBITUARY

Lucinda Applebury was born to Lucius Powell and the late Jo Farris on July 8, 1967, in Cincinnati, Ohio. She attended church at an early age and accepted Christ in her life.

She attended Aiken High School and was a star in track and field. She won many awards and set records with her multi-talents.

Lucinda went to Tennessee State University to achieve higher goals in track, but later decided to pursue a career as a hairstylist, cook, event planner, and party host. Lucinda loved to travel and listen to music. She was a fan of the Oakland Raiders.

She loved to cook for everyone. She looked forward to family gatherings. She was all about helping her family and friends.

A woman that would give you the best direction, advice, guidance, and love. She would see through all lies and shenanigans (LOL). A woman that walked with confidence and her head held high. She will be missed.

She was preceded in death by her mother, Jo Florence Farris and nephew, Malcolm Allen.

Lucinda leaves to cherish her memories, a loving husband, Steve Applebury Jr; two amazing children, Donald Gibbs Sr. and Cherie Applebury; two grandchildren that you couldn't tell her nothing about – Jasiri Gibbs (Nonni Big Boy), Donald Love Gibbs Jr (Nonni Big Baby); siblings, John Farris, Sheila (Ronnie) Allen, Lucius (Pam) Farris, Alex Brown, George Powell, Lucius Powell Jr., Dyrene Powell, Andino Powell. She leaves a host of other nieces, nephews, other family and friends.
