TORI - The Secret Dragon

Victoria Elizabeth-Ann Wiley left this world far too soon on September 1, 2025, at the age of 26. Born on September 28, 1998, in Kansas City, Missouri, to Theodore and Sheryll Wiley, she grew up in Kansas City and Lee's Summit before graduating from high school in Arizona.

Victoria was a radiant soul—intelligent, vibrant, creative, and full of promise. Her gifts as an artist, her passion for cooking, and her dedication to learning inspired all who knew her. On her high school debate team, her keen intellect and confident voice shone brightly, leaving a lasting impression on peers and teachers alike.

She cherished time with her four sisters above all, sharing laughter, movies, and stories that bound them together in love. She also created magical memories with her nieces and nephews, who knew her not just as "Aunt Tori," but as a source of joy, imagination, and unconditional love.

She is lovingly remembered by her parents, Theodore and Sheryll Wiley; and her siblings Yvonne Webb, Rickey Webb, Marcell Wiley (with Karmen), Kiana Johnson (with Derek Lowe), Jasmine Wiley, Destiny Wiley, and Theodore J. Wiley IV (TJ).

She is also remembered by her aunts: Crystal Wiley, Sharon Byrd, Rosalind O'Hora, Lydia Caldwell, Marcia Carson, and Candice Releford; and her uncles: Calvin Wiley, Roscoe Johnson III, George Dupree Jr., and John Dupree; along with a host of cousins, extended family, and friends who will always hold her memory close.

Among those closest to her heart were her beloved nieces and nephews—each of whom carried her joy and imagination. She lovingly gave several of them special nicknames: Cheyenne Webb-Coleman "Panda," Skyylar Webb-Weaver "Penguin," Easton Lowe "Porcupine," Elani Lowe "Possum," and Dacarri Wiley "Strawberry," along with Rickey Webb III and Iya Wiley. She cherished them deeply, filling their lives with laughter, stories, and love that will forever live on in their hearts.

Victoria was preceded in death by her grandparents: Roscoe K. Johnson Jr., Theodore J. Wiley Jr., Yvonne C. Johnson, and Annie R. Wiley.

Her time with us was far too brief, but her life was rich with love, laughter, and inspiration. Her passing leaves a space that can never be filled, yet her memory endures—like a golden dragon perched on a mountaintop, ever watchful, ever bright. Her art, her culinary gifts, and her indomitable spirit will continue to soar, reminding all who knew her of the beauty and power of a life fully lived.

In Our Hearts

To honor the deep love she shared with her sisters, we remember the words of Maya Angelou:

Angelou:

*"Each of us faces
her sister who whispers silence to encourage,
Her sister who gazes with eyes that understand,
Her sister who sends a smile from miles away,
Her sister who touches the heart without touching the hand."*

I'm Free

*No chains can hold, no night confine,
The spirit's flame, eternal, divine.
She soars beyond where eyes can see,
At last, dear Victoria—her soul is free.*

*She rests where sorrow cannot stay,
Beyond the clouds, she finds her way.
No pain, no night, just endless skies—
Her soul takes wing, her spirit flies.*

"A dragon's fire, a heart of gold — your spirit shines forever bold."

"In the warmth of fire, your laughter lives."

Tori,

My heart is in shambles.

I always told you “I didn’t care how tall you are, you is always going to be my little sister.” I meant every word.

You were an beacon in my life. You were smart, beautiful and strong to the very end. It pains me knowing that you are no longer here physically but I know that you are always around all of us spiritually. You were indeed a fierce dragon. You kept things 100%, You evaluated situations and overcame them. You were my inspiration when it came to me getting into Dungeons and Dragons. I got to watch you play solo video games. These memories I will cherish until my end.

You are extremely and painfully missed dearly and I long for the day that we reunite again. That is my only comfort now. Until then, I will continue to live in your honor. No matter how much sorrow or anger I feel. We all have to live. 🌻 I love you and I wish I had told you that more.

Hey Bestie, I miss you.

I wish I came home and spent more time with you. So much “would’ve” “could’ve” “should’ve” did . I can vividly see us eating graham crackers and peanut butter at 7 & 9 years of age. I remember getting to work at the same job with you, trying to follow you around at school all the time. We started as rivals and ended as Best friends. You would cook what you wanted and you knew I was gonna eat it lol. Taught me about all your favorite anime’s and games. Which made me love it more. I remember drawing with you playing dolls & card games in our room all of us. Girl we started college together in the same class doing labs. When you were so against the Covid vaccine but you got it to protect grandma, so I said “if you dying I’m dying too” I just can’t believe this . Now I’m here waiting to see you walk through the door. We were supposed to come to KC and live our best lives, and we did I’m glad we did. You got to make so many memories that will last forever. Thank you for making me so tough . Thank you for fighting. Thank you for supporting Gaza, Palestine and everywhere there was heart break. Thank you for being my older sibling Thank you for 8 more years ♥ Thank you, I’ve always loved you and appreciated you. Tell grandma I said Hi. Dacarri and I will live forever for you.

We love you, Destiny aka your headache.

“Wings unseen, but felt in every smile.”

We were the first to see you, and the last to behold your beautiful face. Now, our baby is free—your soul unbound, your pain lifted, your spirit rising with strength and grace.

We see you as a dragon, mighty and radiant, soaring through the skies. Your wings stretch wide, carrying you beyond the clouds, your fire burning eternal. That fire is not one of destruction, but of light—guiding us through the dark, reminding us that you are still here.

You guard your family from above, a fierce protector and a gentle soul. You are etched into the stars, and forever carved into our hearts. The memories we shared burn bright within us, treasures of flame and light— and we will cherish them for all our days.

So fly free, our beautiful daughter—on wings of fire and light—forever loved, forever remembered, until we meet again.
