

LOVE

Poem By : Emanuel King-Harris

Love isn't simply measured by the weight of someone's presence but what their presence means to us

Longing for their presence because of what it means, we know it brings us love Grief isn't the end of what we feel for them, nor is it the end of how they felt for us

So allow us to remember the love, the laughter, and the life whenever we begin to forget that love is not just a presence, but the weight is determined by how that made us feel loved
