

The Quiet Anchor

*For everyone, you were the rock,
The steady hand against the clock.
You carried grief, you carried pain,
Yet gave us sunshine through the rain.*

*You gave so much and asked for naught,
With every quiet fight you fought.
A matriarch of grace and grit,
Your steady flame is safely lit.*

*Within the hearts of those you reared,
The ones you loved, the ones you cheered.
Go rest in peace, your duties done,
The hardest, bravest race is won.*
