

Aaron was deeply loved by his parents, Roger and Lynda (Boggs) Fonder; his sister, Amy Chabra; his brother-in-law, Indy Chabra; his niece, Brooke; his devoted cat, Sushi; and a wonderfully large family of relatives and friends. He is reunited in heaven with his grandparents and many beloved family members who went before him.

Aaron loved bowling and rolled several perfect 300 games. He loved Honda Civics, especially his numbered Type R, R00354, and was proud to be part of Relentless Productions and Hondas with Heart. He also loved gaming, Texas Hold'em, concerts, Trailer Park Boys, Bob's Burgers, terrible puns, dill pickle chips, and "Mountain Yellow."

Some of Aaron's happiest memories were made at his dad's shop, with Treloars, and alongside friends who became family. He worked at Daktronics for more than a decade, where he was treated with extraordinary patience, dignity, and compassion as his health changed.

Aaron lived with an unusually aggressive form of multiple sclerosis that affected his memory, balance, and independence. When he withdrew, it was the disease speaking, never his heart. He may have forgotten conversations, but he never forgot that he loved you.

Aaron died as he had hoped, peacefully at home, with Sushi nearby. He is now free from confusion, fear, and seizures.

Honor Aaron by sharing hope, not fear, with anyone newly diagnosed with MS. Encourage them to find an MS specialist and fight for early, effective treatment.

Remember Aaron through a perfect game, a beautiful Honda, a ridiculous shirt, a terrible pun, or a sip of Mountain Yellow.

Aaron was kind. Aaron was funny. Aaron was deeply loved. He will be missed more than he ever understood.
