

In Loving Memory

A Lovely Love

He existed! She knew somewhere out there,
Was a "he" who fit this "she,"
Like a foot fit's a shoe.
This she knew so well.
And in telling it to others they sometimes shook their heads,
"Can't be" they said, (but not aloud)
She knew this one so true belonged to her.
So she prepared while others were scared of taking
Such big steps of dreaming such lovely dreams.
He knew too, this love so new would come.
He knew not when.
But, he dreamed the lovely dream,
Spun of strength and lovely love.
They met, these two, not quite strangers.
They renewed an old acquaintance.
Started a lovely love.
Reading the meaning of loving, of living, of "forevering,"
In each others eyes.
They two held out for "forevers,"
As a garland of children-promised danced with them,
A circle of lovely love.
