Obituary

In loving memory of Terence Lamont “Poo” Dudley, truly a one-of-a-kind character whose presence alone sparked love and laughter. Poo unexpectedly transitioned from his earthly life on January 28, 2026. Born November 1, 1967, in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, Poo was the guy everyone knew and loved—if you were around him, laughter was guaranteed, no matter what else unfolded. With his boundless humor, fun energy, fierce passion for sports, and heart full of warmth, he turned every encounter into a memory worth cherishing forever.

From childhood, Poo stood out as effortlessly cool, someone everybody knew by name and story. He dominated local sports in his youth, shining especially on the football field and baseball diamond with raw talent and competitive fire. He was recognized as a true P-FUNK legend, being honored for the impact and inspiration he had on those around him. A proud father, Poo loved his children deeply and expressed it in his own memorable ways. He showed love through sharp wit, playful debates, and the silly nicknames he gave everyone. Blunt, outspoken, and always ready for an argument, he was also a good-hearted man whose personality left a lasting impression.

Surviving him are his six incredible children, the heart of his proudest legacy: Antionette Lovette Stewart, Chante Renee Dudley, Terrell Lovel Dudley, Dr. Brayana Lashay Dudley, Teaira Dudley, and Cheyanne Marie Kanish. He is also survived by his father Terry McCraw (Vivian), stepfather Mustafa Salhudin, sisters Cherie Dudley, Chanelle Williams, and Teresa Green Banks; brothers Solomon McCraw, Larry McCraw, Tony McCraw, and Lorenzo McCraw; god-sister Deshay Rogers; aunts and uncles; a special Aunt Gale McFarland; 11 grandchildren; 1 great-grandson; special bonus children; and an enormous circle of family and friends who were family in every way.

Poo is preceded in death by his mother, Patricia Dudley Williams, and grandmothers Sarah Annabelle Waters and Flossie McCraw. May his soul rest in eternal peace, and may his spirit live on in every laugh we share.
