

I Held You

By: Layne Morris

I held you close on your first day.
My love for you I could not weigh.
Your curly hair, your bright blue eyes.
Every day a new surprise.
You filled our hearts with joy and love.
A tiny gift from up above.

I held you as I read you books.
You held my leg as I tried to cook.
I watched you play and learn and grow.
In summer sun and winter snow.
You played with cars and trucks, your bus.
You hardly ever made a fuss.

I held your hand when you drew your last.
Those two short years went by too fast.
I held you then on that grey day.
The day the Lord took you away.
Though the time has come to part.
I hold you now within my heart.
