"I'd Like to Think"

A Poem By: Tatyana Cox

I have no idea what happens after we die, so this gives me room to be able to think of all the ways I could hope of my Mom finding peace. I'd like to think on a beautiful day when the sun is out and the wind is blowing, that would be her smiling down on me, telling me to have a good day. When it's cold and rainy outside, I'd like to think I could hear her voice telling me to hurry and get in the house before I get sick. When I go through her things and see something I'd like to keep as a memory of her, I'd like to hear her voice telling me to go ahead and take it because she knows I like it. It's easier said than done, but when I think of my Mama, I'd like to remember the life I got to spend with her, and when I remember that she's gone, I want to be at peace with the fact that she's not suffering anymore. I'll always love her, and with that love that I carry in my heart, I will patiently wait until I can reunite with her and tell her how much I have missed her. -Toddie
