

Dear Khari,

There are very few things that should make a grown man cry, but death of a child will surely bring tears to a grown man cry, from the moment I met you

I knew I could never forget you, and though you weren't my biological child I felt the need to protect you. As I lay and I write I can only wish you we're with us still, because the pain of losing a child is something no one should have to feel, to call home and hear you were gone was something surreal, they say that time heals everything but some wounds just don't heal, once again there are very few things that should make a grown man cry, but the death of a child will surely bring tears to any grown mans eye, so as I write this letter I weep openly with no shame, and I won't wipe tears because they reflect my pain, I won't bury my head or hide my face, I don't want condolences I only want space, reality is harsh so I only want sleep, my emotions are in turmoil and I only want peace, life can be cruel and death is a thief, but God makes no mistakes so I know you're at peace, once again there are very few things that should make a grown man cry, but the death of a child will surely bring tears to any grown mans eye,

OBITUARY

Khari Lamenuel Daniels is the most precious gift that his mother and family could have ever received. He lived with a condition called Hydronencephally for 4 ½ years until The Most High saw fit to call him home October 30th, 2020 12:57 p.m. at home with his family.

Khari was born on March 21st 2016 in Dayton, Ohio to Donisha Daniels. He came to this world with what could be described as insurmountable challenges and overcame most of them, Doctors did not expect Khari to live to be a year old, but he stayed and loved on us for 4 ½ years. Khari touched lives near and far with the most beautiful smile you could ever imagine.

Khari is survived by his mother Donisha Daniels (Kymonne Wise), father Ronneco Ruffin, sister Kaidence Wise, maternal grandparents, Tangarin Daniels and Lamenuel Scales, paternal grandparents Angel Ruffin and Ron Siler, six aunts, thirteen uncles and a host of other family.
