Obituary

Marlon LaMonte Styles was born on March 20, 1975, in Cincinnati, Ohio, to Venita M. Young and Terry Young Sr. He was a beloved son, a devoted brother to JoAnna Young and Terry Young Jr., and a loyal friend to many.

Marlon was known for his love of sports, especially as a passionate fan of the Florida State Seminoles and an admirer of Michael Jordan. He had an impressive collection of gym shoes, reflecting his appreciation for style and his unique personality.

He dedicated much of his life to serving others through his work in food service and transportation. Marlon made a significant impact at the University of Cincinnati, where countless students and staff remember him as a friendly and welcoming presence in the food hall. His warmth and genuine care for others left an impression that will not be forgotten.

Marlon is preceded in death by his father, Terry Young Sr., and his grandparents, Marlene and Joseph Styles. He is survived by his loving mother, Venita M. Young; his siblings, JoAnna Young and Terry Young Jr.; and a host of family members and close friends who will cherish his memory.
