THE LIFE OF Kamla S. BERKLEY-PASCHAL

Kamla S. Berkley-Paschal was born July 17, 1972, in Kansas City, Missouri, to Mary M. Berkley and George W. Berkley. The youngest of three children, she grew up alongside her siblings, Teresa Austin and George "Anthony" Berkley. Kamla graduated from Lincoln Academy, where she participated in ROTC, played soccer, and played bass in the school orchestra. From an early age, she had a love for fashion, beauty, and celebrating life.

Kamla attended the University of Kansas before pursuing her passion for cosmetology and graduating from Paris II Cosmetology School. After working for AT&T, she joined her mother and sister in the salon. A gifted stylist and talented colorist, Kamla took tremendous pride in her craft and loved making every person who sat in her chair feel beautiful.

Kamla's love story with Warren M. Paschal began at a barbecue, where Warren saw Kamla and knew she was the woman he wanted to marry. On August 30, 2008, the two became husband and wife, building a life filled with love, family, and memories. Kamla was the proud mother of Kameron, Kazmyn, and Channing and the loving grandmother of Xylo, Onyx, and Lyrick. Family was one of the greatest joys of Kamla's life. A woman of Baptist faith, she also served with the Pastor's Aide and gave her time to her church community.

On February 14, 2023, Kamla suffered a stroke that changed the course of her life, but never the essence of who she was. For more than three years, she fought with remarkable strength and perseverance. She pushed. She persevered. She gave everything she had. On September 20, 2026, surrounded by family, Kamla transitioned from this life after fighting a beautiful fight.

Kamla was preceded in death by her parents, Mary M. Berkley and George W. Berkley, and her brother, George A. "Anthony" Berkley. She leaves to cherish her memory her husband, Warren; her daughters, Kameron, Kazmyn, and Channing; her grandchildren, Xylo, Onyx, and Lyrick; her sister, Teresa Austin (James); her nephews, Durrell, Nathan, and Joshua (Le'Crecia "LeeLee"); their children, Naujea, Honesty, and Promise; and a host of family, friends, clients, and loved ones whose lives she touched.
