SHE HELD US ALL

She was the quiet strength in every storm, the gentle voice that kept us warm.

A mother not just by birth,
but by the love she poured into this earth.

Her arms stretched wide enough to hold every broken heart.

Her smile stitched families together when life tried to pull us apart.

Now our hearts feel heavy,
and the world feels a little less bright.

But she walks with the Lord now, wrapped in everlasting light.

Though her chair sits empty,
her love has never left the room.

It lingers in the stories we tell,
in every heart she helped bloom.

So we lift our heads through the tears,
and carry her strength as we go —

living the way she taught us, loving the way she showed.

Her journey continues in heaven,
but her legacy lives in us every day.

And when we feel lost or hurting,
her spirit will light the way.

Niema was born in Philadelphia, PA, to parents Jhon W Lee and Joanne Crawford on August 26, 1978. Growing up, Niema attended school in Palmer Township and Philadelphia. From a young age, she explored many hobbies and interests. She danced, played sports, and even acted in school plays. She was always outgoing and willing to try almost anything, embracing life with a spirit that was both adventurous and full of light.

Before becoming a mother, she was a devoted member of her family—always setting an example and serving as a role model. She inspired those around her to push themselves to their limits and to love wholeheartedly. Niema is remembered as a selfless, kind, supportive, and unconditionally loving soul. She was dependable in every sense—whether you needed sound advice, a place to stay, or simply a comforting presence. She gave herself fully to the people she loved, with no conditions—only heart. Those same values were instilled deeply into her children, who carry her strength, compassion, and light forward. She was, in every way, a true leader.

Niema is preceded in death by her mother Joanne Crawford, father Jhon W Lee, brother Elijah Crawford, uncle Ricky Snead, grandmother Shirley Crawford, and best friend Tamkea Padget. She is survived by her six children: Lashonda, Leschon, Tashon, Nayyirrah, Nicahya, and Shaniyla; her grandson Zayan Gonzales; two aunts Sherry and Carolyn Crawford; three sisters Michelle, Sherrell, and Syreeta; four brothers Tyrone, Charles, John Wendell, and John Wayne; her niece Clover; two nephews Dylan and Ramier Crawford; her godchild Javier ; and a host of family and friends who will forever cherish her memory.

Niema touched every life she encountered with warmth, grace, and an unwavering love. Her spirit remains a guiding light to all who knew her, and her presence will be deeply missed but eternally felt.

My mom was supportive, understanding, and endlessly caring. She loved unconditionally and stayed strong, no matter what. She was the one who held all of us together. She was funny, selfless, and felt like a best friend — someone I could talk to about anything without ever being judged. She was beautiful, inside and out, and someone I could be silly and messy with. An overall amazing mother !

I miss my queen every single day.

From your daughter

Growing up I wouldn't have wanted nobody else to be my sister, the most genuine, gentle, kind person you could ever meet. I wanted to do everything she did she was in dance i was in dance she was doing plays I wanted to do plays to, don't ever think I met anyone that knew her that had a bad thing to say about her. She taught me so many things about being a woman and eventually about being a mother. She would help anyone family a stranger it didn't matter, whether you needed good advice or a place to stay she was there. No matter what she was going through in life you wouldn't know because she helped people when she didn't have it to do. Everybody knew they can go to her for genuine help with anything without judgement. I wouldn't say she was timid but treated everyone how she wanted to be treated and some people took advantage. I was glad as she got older, she started setting boundaries and didn't take no mess. Always was down to have a good time. I'm gonna miss my party partner but I know she in heaven partying with our mom and is in no pain. I'm gonna miss her forever and I will never be the same. Hope she knows I have her kids until my last breath.

Love always your little sister, until we meet again, hug mommy for me -

Michelle

My mom was the kind of person who made everyone feel loved and safe. She was patient, strong, and always there when someone needed her. She taught me kindness through her actions and showed me what it means to care for others without expecting anything in return. Even on her hardest days, she still put her family first. I will always be grateful for her love, her guidance, and the way she shaped who I am today. She will be deeply missed, and her love will be with us forever.
