

PERHAPS

*Perhaps you sent a lovely card
Or sat quietly in a chair,
Perhaps you sent a floral piece
If so, we saw it there.
Perhaps you spoke the kindest words
As any friends could say,
Perhaps you were not there at all
Just thought of us that day.
Whatever you did to console our hearts,
We thank you so much, whatever the part.*

*A thousand words can't bring you back
We know because we tried...
Neither will a thousand tears
We know because we cried....
You left behind our broken hearts
And happy memories too....
But we never wanted memories
We only wanted you.*

PROVERBS 3

She was more precious than rubies and all the things thou can desire are not to be compared unto her. Her ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace. She is a tree of life to them that lay hold upon her: and happy is every one that retaineth her.

MARGE THOMPSON

I met MARGE over 50 years ago and only in recent years we learned that we were related thru marriage.

All the years that I've known her, she was dedicated to her family, especially her three daughters. She provided a beautiful home, educated her daughters and worked as a nurse until she decided to retire. MARGE was very gifted, with a big heart and desire to help others. She loved people and was a friend to many. She will be especially remembered for her friendly smile and acts of kindness.

Her memory will be cherished by her family, a host of special friends and myself. I am so happy that I had the opportunity to know her throughout the past 50 plus years.

In visiting with her on a regular basis prior to her passing and having many private conversations with her, it became apparent to me that her expression of life on this earth and beyond had been well defined. It is my personal belief that MARGE was expressing to me, during our last verbal conversation, that she is FREE and would not like for anyone to grieve for her. Shortly after this conversation, she was unable to verbally communicate, as she so eloquently did during weeks leading up to her passing.

Upon passing, she realized that she could not remain on this earth another day and that tasks left undone must stay that way. MARGE found peace at the time of her expiration.

Although her departure has left a void in the hearts of many, all of us can fill it with remembered joy and friendship that we shared.

MARGE would not want any of us to be burdened with times of sorrow, because her life was full of good times, hard work, good friends and a loving family.

Perhaps MARGE'S time seemed all too brief, but she would not like for it to be lengthened now with undue grief. GOD wanted her now and he has SET HER FREE. It is up to those left behind to celebrate her FREEDOM and wish her well and hopefully one day, we will be able to join her in the most perfect place imaginable.

On a personal note, I loved MARGE unconditionally and will remember her throughout the duration of my life.

A TRIBUTE TO MARJORIE

MARGIE, as all her family and friends called her, was a phenomenal woman. She loved people so much and had such a warm and generous heart. She loved to cook and would welcome everyone into her home with an abundance of lovingly prepared dishes.

She loved babies from the time she was a young girl and carried that love until her dying day. Being around babies brought Margie so much joy. She also loved her nurse friends dearly. Together they created a tradition of a monthly brunch meeting that lasted well into their retirement.

MARGIE looked out for her neighbors by bringing them her homemade soups and casseroles when they were ill. She would keep in contact with them by phone when she couldn't move around as much in her later years.

She was a woman of innate strength and determination. After her marriage of 17 years ended, she held down her nursing job. Margie worked double shifts to make ends meet, while raising 3 daughters as only a strong and determined woman could do. As the years went by, she transitioned into private duty nursing, got re-married to Maurice Thompson, and they built a life together.

MARGIE leaves behind a wealth of love, by her family and all who knew her. She will be forever in our hearts, minds and souls.
