

IN Loving Memory OF

"Her Journey Home"

God saw you getting tired, And a cure was not to be. So He wrapped
His arms around you And whispered, "Come with Me."
You didn't deserve what you went through, So He gave you rest instead. God's garden must be beautiful, For He only takes the best.
When we saw you sleeping, So peaceful and free from pain, We could not wish you back To suffer that again.
Though your voice is silent now, And we cannot see your smile, Your love remains within our hearts And will stay there all the while.
Until we meet again, We will cherish every memory And thank God for the blessing Of having you in our lives.

Her Story

Valerra Del Lewis was the daughter of Helen Marie and Marshall B. Lewis, II. She is survived by one son, David Andrew Lewis and her siblings Valerie F. Franz (Woody), Tony Wallace (Brenda), Beverly A. Lewis, Marshall B. Lewis, III, and a host of nieces and nephews. She is also mourned by her best friend Angela Cooper, as she was godmother to Angela's children Jourdan Howland-Townsend (Isaac) and Joshua Cooper.

Having graduated from Philadelphia High School for Girls, a magnet school for academically gifted girls, Valerra attended Drexel University on scholarship and graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree from its College of Business and Administration on June 12, 1988.

She was a go-getter and after completion of her university studies she secured a job with Citibank and worked her way up to Operations Vice-President. In that capacity, she traveled nation-wide giving seminars and setting up computer systems. She loved her job but after a few years had to take a medical leave due to complications from several surgical procedures.

Valerra was a woman of intellect and ambition. She was the kind of mom, sister, auntie, God-mom, colleague, and friend who showed up at a moment's notice, ready to handle the business at hand, no questions asked. She had a big heart. Her infectious laugh and radiant nature made being in her presence that much more enjoyable. She loved her cats and traveling, especially going on cruises. She had a knack for interior design and found pleasure in coordinating her wardrobe with her enormous collection of designer bags. Her hobby of hand-crafting Christmas wreaths for family and friends, alongside her elaborate Christmas decorations, were a hallmark of her artistic flair.

Valerra will be sorely missed by family, friends, and all who knew and loved her. We ask for your prayers during this time of grief as we honor her memory and celebrate the beautiful, powerful woman she was.
