Remembering Peaches

Dezzie Dianne Feazell, affectionately known as “Peaches,” was born on March 8, 1956, in Peoria, Illinois, to Ernestine and Isaac Feazell Sr. She was the youngest of six children, with one brother on her father’s side. Peaches was a kind and loving soul, known for her warmth, sweetness, and a voice as powerful as a lion.

At a young age, Peaches and her family relocated to Las Vegas, Nevada, where she attended Rancho High School and graduated at the age of 16, a year ahead of her class.

Peaches was known for listening to her down-home blues and her sensational two step dancing. From a young age, Peaches was captivated by entertainment, becoming a natural-born singer and joining the Angelic Superiors Choir. She performed in church for much of her life and had the honor of meeting and sharing the stage with legendary artists such as Gladys Knight.

Peaches was also a talented artist, loving to draw in her free time. She enjoyed spending time with her family, particularly children, and was well known for her playful spirit. In her later years, she found joy in caring for her children, including raising little Mary when she lived in Arkansas. She continued to care for her mother until her mother’s passing.

In addition to her beloved family, Peaches had a special bond with several young ones, including Nunu, Tamara, Lanie, and Juicy. She always welcomed the children around her, often having them take a nap with her caring touch and nurturing heart.

Peaches is preceded in death by her parents, Ernestine and Isaac Feazell, as well as six siblings: Gerry Nelson (John Arthur), Lois Nelson (Knight Train), Isaac Jr., Willie Feazell, and Carneal Feazell. She is survived by, her two daughters, Urniq Feazell and Mary Harris, her son, Damon Feazell, one brother, Stevie Feazell, three grandsons, four granddaughters, a special sister Anitra Leaper (William) and a host of nieces, nephews, cousins, friends, and family.

Peaches will be forever missed, but she will never be far from our hearts. Her love, spirit, and legacy will live on in all those who were fortunate enough to know her.

THE LIFE OF DEZZIE DIANNE FEAZELL

Our Beloved Peaches and my Auntie.

You was our babygirl, the youngest daughter, one of the last lights of your parents' love...and the softest heartbeat in a house full of memories. Everyone who came before you- your parents and older siblings -are all gone, yet you carried them, like a cross.

You was our Peaches, sweet, with a big, beautiful smile and sensitive spirit, even somewhat of a crybaby(smile), tenderhearted in a world that wasn't always gentle in return.

Most don't know you could draw, as I always recall your picturesque drawing of me as a boy. Talented, we all knew you could sing like an angel. And though the world took its toll- with sorrow, trials, and tribulations your soul never stopped shining. You remained soft, even when life tried to make you hard.

You were a daughter, our sister, auntie and mother who loved deeply, and a proud grandmother of three precious grandbabies who lit up your last years.

To me, you were more than auntie..You was like a big sister and friend. Our home was always under Mama's roof together. I remember the day you brought your baby boy home, and I, just a pup myself, felt something special in the air. We never had a conflict; other than the pain I felt by the pain you caused yourself. Between us there was always joy, love and easiness.

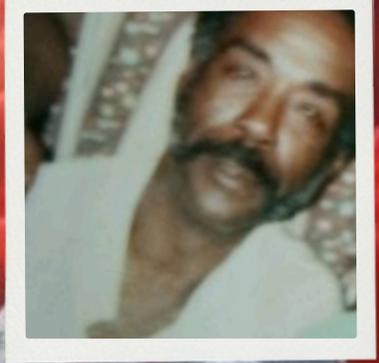

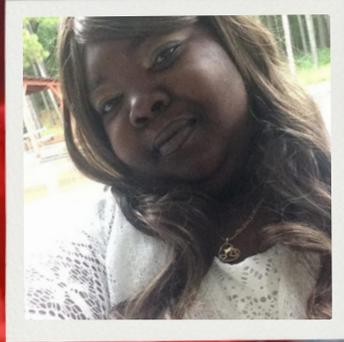

Seventy years on this earth, and in each of them, you gave...tenderness, talent, laughter and tears. You gave us yourself, exactly as you were, gentle, sensitive and loving.

You was Peaches. And you still are. In every memory, moment and melody...In every grandchild's smile. Still sweet...Still soft...Still love.

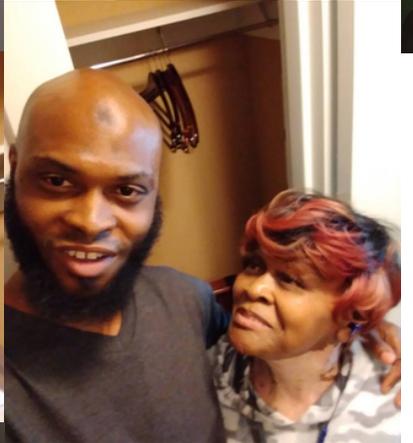

We love n miss you wholly.
