Acclaimed Legaments

Thank you all for being here today for loving my son, and for surrounding our family with so much love and support during this difficult time. The day Damarrion was born, I was given one of the greatest gifts of my life. From that moment, he had my whole heart, and I will forever be grateful for the blessing of being his mother. On behalf of our family, thank you for your prayers, kindness, and for helping us honor and celebrate Damarrion's beautiful life.

Obituary

DAMARRION AVONTRAE KEELING

Damarion Avontrae Keeling was born on January 16, 2012, in Wichita, Kansas, to Joseph Williams and Sherae Keeling.

Damarion grew into a caring, respectful, and quiet young man with a beautiful heart. Though he often kept to himself, he loved his family deeply and always tried to make sure the people he cared about were okay. He understood the importance of protecting his peace and believed that not every action required a reaction.

Damarion was effortlessly funny. Sometimes all it took was a look or expression from him to make an entire room laugh. He loved Friday movies, fried chicken and macaroni and cheese, Cap'n Crunch, funny skits, Mario Kart 8, Super Smash Bros., and playing football on his Oculus.

He enjoyed learning new things and had dreams for his future. Damarion talked about one day having three children of his own and owning a security guard company.

He especially enjoyed his brotherly debates with J'Cylon. No matter the topic, Damarion often ended the conversation with his famous, "Oh, okay..." It was not his way of giving in, but simply his way of saying he had said what he needed to say.

As his mother, Sherae treasures the lessons Damarion taught her about patience, forgiveness, love, and appreciating life. He reminded her that mistakes do not define us and that love does not always require grand gestures. Sometimes it is simply letting someone know, "I see you, and what you do matters."

Damarion was deeply loved by his family, friends, and all those whose lives were touched by his presence. He will be remembered as kind, sweet, peaceful, funny, and unapologetically himself.

To know Damarion was to love him.

Damarion, my love for you has always been and will always be unconditional. You were my first child, and you gave me a love that changed me forever. Though you are no longer with us physically, you will forever live within our hearts.

This is not goodbye, my son. It is simply, "I'll see you later."

You always called me "Ma.

Ma loves you forever.
